EXCELLENT HIGHER EDUCATION

The higher education system is varied, diversified and accessible. From universities and university colleges to schools of arts, from Bachelor level through to PhD, each and every student is sure to find the right education for their plans. By choosing French-speaking Belgium to study, students can count on excellent education hinged on a long tradition of scientific and technological innovation and research.

Universities

The universities offer their students theoretical and scientific courses. The options are divided up into 4 main areas of knowledge: science and technology, human sciences, health sciences and arts. In addition to in-depth knowledge of the chosen subject, the universities offer a solid general education, encouraging their students to study within a scientific approach. This is why the focus is firmly on research, both basic and applied.

University colleges

The university colleges offer a quality education, liaising closely with applied research, universities, and socio-professional environments. Differently to the universities, the teaching employed in the university colleges is hinged on learning and the world of work. Theoretical and conceptual aspects are all part of the programme with a heavy focus on internships, which are mandatory.

Schools of arts

Enjoying world renown, the schools of arts educate all Belgian and foreign students looking to pursue visual arts, theatre and the arts of entertainment and music.

In French-speaking Belgium, higher education is based on a system of three cycles of studies: the bachelor's degree, the master's degree and the PhD. Each qualification obtained gives you ECTS credits, which are recognised in numerous countries in both the European Union and worldwide. As an adhering member of this system, the Wallonia-Brussels Federation is committed to guaranteeing the quality of higher education, promoting student mobility and strengthening the globalisation of its higher education.

How higher education works

The award of the qualifications (bachelor's degree, master's degree and PhD) is linked to the number of years of studies completed since entering higher education. Each year can award up to 60 ECTS credits (European Credits Transfer System), which can be used and transferred from one country to another.

- A 1st cycle qualification (bachelor's degree) represents 180 or 240 ECTS credits, namely 3 or 4 years of study.
- A 2nd cycle qualification (master's degree) represents 60, 120 or 180 ECTS credits, namely 1, 2 or 3 years of study.
- A 3rd cycle qualification (PhD) represents a variable number of ECTS credits.

THE INTERNATIONALISATION OF HIGHER EDUCATION IN FRENCH-SPEAKING BELGIUM

Situated in the heart of Europe, the Wallonia-Brussels Federation welcomes more than 300,000 students every year, of whom more than 20% are international. Split between 41 top quality higher education institutions, more and more students are now choosing to come to French-speaking Belgium.

+36%

OF PHD STUDENTS IN THE LAST 10 YEARS

20%

OF FRENCH-SPEAKING BELGIAN STUDENTS ARE INTERNATIONALLY MOBILE

THOUSANDS OF JOINT PROGRAMMES HAVE BEEN DEVELOPED, INCLUDING "ERASMUS MUNDUS" MASTER'S DEGREES AND PHDS.

NUMEROUS COURSES ARE DELIVERED IN ENGLISH, SPANISH, GERMAN AND DUTCH.

Like everywhere else in the world today, the French-speaking Belgian university colleges are adapting to the context of globalisation and are internationalising their teaching. For them, this means maintaining and developing partnerships with higher education institutions established on the five continents, promoting incoming and outgoing student mobility, encouraging the mobility of teachers (promotion of the institution, sharing of expertise and good practices, development of joint programmes, etc.), setting up double degree programmes and encouraging the mobility of administrative and technical staff.

Open-minded and multicultural

There can be no doubt, a stand-out feature of the Wallonia-Brussels Federation is its diversity and openness to the world. The Federation's ability to secure international partnerships and export its talent bears witness to this openness. Although English is spoken widely, in addition to the three official languages (French, Dutch and German), a great many other nationalities are also represented in the higher education institutions of Wallonia-Brussels, institutions that welcome more and more international students with each year that passes.

BELGIAN SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH: RECOGNISED WORLDWIDE

In French-speaking Belgium (Wallonia-Brussels), scientific research is an area that is shared by the federal state, regions and communities. In practical terms, two types of higher education institutions are in charge of research:

- Universities, which assure basic scientific research (community competence). Please also note that PhD researcher training lies exclusively with universities and university academies.
- University colleges, which deal with applied research (regional competence). Additionally, since 2019, university colleges can now submit applications for financing for research projects using the FRHE (University college research financing) scheme.

The influence of scientific research in the Wallonia-Brussels Federation beyond its borders is confirmed by its many Nobel prize winners:

UNIVERSITY COLLEGES: PRACTICAL, PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

All the French-speaking university colleges of Belgium offer a quality education, liaising closely with applied research, universities, and socio-professional environments. Differently to the universities, the teaching employed in the university colleges is hinged on learning and the world of work. The theoretical and conceptual aspects are all part of the programme with a heavy focus on internships, which are mandatory. If you are looking for a course delivered in small halls with regular, practical work, then a university college is what you need!

How are university colleges studies organised?

- Studies organised as a single cycle, leading to a professional Bachelor's degree (180 - 240 ECTS credits).
- Studies organised into two cycles, leading to a Bachelor's degree (1st cycle - 180 ECTS credits) and Master (2nd cycle – 60 to 120 ECTS credits).
- Studies organised into one or two cycles, leading to an advanced Bachelor's degree. This can be obtained after having successfully completed an initial Bachelor's or Master's degree. The advanced Bachelor's degree contains at least 60 ECTS credits.

HEH.be provides Bachelor's and Master's degrees organised by Wallonia-Brussels Federation.

Since 1996, the year of its creation, Haute École en Hainaut (HEH.be University College) has always met the challenge of offering a quality education provided by well-motivated teachers and promoting student success thanks to an individualised support throughout their training.

To achieve its goals, HEH.be offers its more than three thousand students a range of thirty-one Bachelor's and Master's study programmes spread across four departments in Mons and Tournai. Furthermore, the institution is also committed to providing inclusive higher education.

Since 7 November 2013 and the adoption of the decree redefining the landscape of higher education, HEH.be has been part of the Pôle hainuyer academic centre, the higher education hub in the province of Hainaut, and works together with the other higher education partner institutions of Hainaut to fulfil its tasks of teaching, research and services to society.

Aware of the importance of international openness, HEH.be signed the Erasmus Charter for Higher Education 2014-2020 and is a beneficiary of the Erasmus+ European mobility programme. It can thus provide mobility grants to its students so that they can carry out an internship or part of their studies abroad.

Learning is taken into account in both its individual and collective dimensions.

On the strength of the skills and experience of our teaching staff and training coordinators, our courses are perfectly in line with the professional world.

With 8 different Bachelor's degree courses and 4 specialisations, we train for the professions of today's society. They also guarantee a high degree of employability, as they are situated either in meaningful new, innovative sectors, or in sectors in which demand is constant. We are actively involved in economic and managerial sciences, public health sciences and motor sciences, as well as agronomic sciences and biological engineering.

Through the courses, activities and events we organise, we encourage an interdisciplinary approach and strive to have the different Bachelor's degrees and specialisations come together around common themes. We are firmly convinced that it is essential to foster interdisciplinary thinking, filled with different knowledge and skills.

We do everything we can to make the student the real protagonist of their training, providing all the tools necessary to meet the expectations of future employers or to ensure that they can embark on everything they dream of, pursuing ambitions and developing creativity and knowledge.
